

Shout about it: Our Talks

Be More Human

Why do it

Organisations are built on conversations and the way we communicate in the workplace is changing – be more human.

It is through the power of conversation that organisations can truly transform – one conversation at a time.

With many more of us working from home for the foreseeable future, how are you equipping yourself and your people to have brilliant conversations?

Conversations that build a human connection. Conversations where people feel engaged. Conversations that create a space for collaboration and interaction. And conversations that deepen trust.

Our virtual and face to face Speaker Sessions inspire participants to explore a different kind of conversation.

A conversation that drives connection, brings joy, grows courage - a conversation that is more human.

Speaker Profile

Emily Cosgrove

Emily is co-founder of The Conversation Space and co-creator of Conversational Wisdom®.

Her passion and expertise lie in helping people bring more of themselves to work, through the power of conversation.

She helps people develop more skillful, honest and powerful dialogue and knows that this increases happiness and engagement at work, and boosts business results.

Emily speaks at various different conferences and events, from small groups to 100's of people.

Emily can often be found recharging her batteries at the Kenwood Ladies pond, swimming outdoors throughout the year.

Testimonials

HM Treasury

“We invited Emily to run a session at our Management Day emphasizing that having good quality conversations is integral to good management.

Emily took the time to really understand our organisation and delivered the session in a way that was engaging and impactful – drawing on what she had learned about HM Treasury to make it relevant. The feedback from people attending, including senior colleagues, was really positive. The messages that Emily communicated really helped managers understand how to make conversations with their teams more meaningful. It was a pleasure to work with Emily and her team – thank you!”

“Working with Emily and the Conversation Space at our International Women’s Day Event provided a real clear, consistent and engaging approach and framework for our colleagues. People left feeling like they had the tools and knowledge to face into conversations they may have previously avoided. This is one step on our approach to supporting our Women of William Hill and this investment in their development was invaluable – for women and the guys! I’d definitely recommend Emily and the team at the Conversation Space to support you and your businesses in putting the human touch into conversations.
